Your shadow self is the part of you that stays unknown, unexamined, and out of the light of your conscious awareness. It is the part that is denied or suppressed because it makes you uncomfortable or afraid. Whatever doesn't fit your image of your ideal self becomes your shadow. Jung asked, "Would you rather be good or whole?"

Healing The Split Between Conscious Self and Shadow Self

Shadow work is when we consciously face the less socially-acceptable parts of ourselves, or the parts kept in the dark. The shadow aspects relate to everything about ourselves that we have been taught to suppress, deny, and shove down deep inside. Our shadow is what society says we shouldn't be.

In Jungian psychology, the shadow, (also known as id, shadow aspect, or shadow archetype) is either an unconscious aspect of the personality that the conscious ego does not identify in itself; or the entirety of the unconscious, i.e., everything of which a person is not fully conscious. In short, the shadow is the unknown side.
