Protestantism is the second-largest form of Christianity (after Catholicism) with a total of 800 million to 1 billion adherents worldwide or about 37% of all Christians. It originated with the 16th century Reformation, a movement against what its followers perceived to be errors in the Catholic Church. Protestants reject the Roman Catholic doctrine of papal supremacy and sacraments, but ...

Harold J. Berman’s Law and Revolution, Volume II explores “The Impact of the Protestant Reformations on the Western Legal Tradition.” “Reformations” is plural in the subtitle because the book explores the impact of the Lutheran Reformation in Germany separately from that of the Calvinist Reformation in England. Both reformations transformed Western law as it had developed from Roman times and through the canon law.
