When you want warm air, then air in the vents is directed to the heater core. When you want cool air, the air is directed away from the heater core. The blend door actuator is responsible for controlling the movement of the vents and the direction of the air, so once it's damaged or broken, you may not have much temperature control in your car. If you need to have this car part replaced, you can expect to pay between $200 and $300 for parts and labor.
