Being happy, content, stimulated, feeling safe and loved, being treated as the individual you are, having a say in your own care needs, and being listened to and respected, are above many other mental requirements of a person living in a care home. When all the mental and emotional needs are met, many of the physical needs are far easier.

What makes a good care home?

"This makes kids feel safe and is the foundation of their happiness," Murray says. Tell your kids every day how much you love them. Be affectionate and free with your hugs, and encourage your kids to share their emotions too. Time Offering your time is another way of showing love. "Kids need time with parents," Murray adds.
