Patterns of Inheritance The phenotype of an individual is determined by his or her genotype. The genotype is determined by alleles that are received from the individual's parents (one from Mom and one from Dad). These alleles control if a trait is “ dominant ” or “ recessive ”.

Patterns of Inheritance - Genetics Generation

In reality both parents transmit the heredity pattern equally, and, on average, children resemble their mothers as much as they do their fathers. Nevertheless, the female and male sex cells may be very different in size and structure; the mass of an egg cell is sometimes millions of times greater than that of a spermatozoon.
