When starting from dark and cold, I cannot start engine two. #1 is not a problem, but #2 is. I switch the starter to grd, with the fuel leveler idle. There is no rise in EGT or something. Also a standby power drive light is on (can't get it off) and engine 2 gives a low pressure warning. I'm sure I'm doing something wrong, but don't know what.

This has got to be finger trouble on my part but can some-one please explain to me why in the PMDG 737 Quickstart flight I can always start the left engine first with PACs on, but never the right until left is running and PACs off. I just cannot get right to start first. The only reason I found out was trying to follow the quickstart instructions in the manual.
