SparkSession: Prior to Spark 2.X, there were different entry points for different Spark jobs; that is, for Spark SQL we had `sqlContext` and if Hive features were also required then `HiveContext` was the entry point. With Spark 2.X this ambiguity has been removed and now we have one single entry point called `SparkSession`. However, it is to be noted that all the module-specific entry points are still very much around and have not been deprecated yet.
