Solute and Solvent | Chemistry for Non- Majors

A solvent is a substance that dissolves the solute particles during the formation of a solution. Most solvents are in a liquid state, but some solvents might be in a gas or solid-state. The solvent breaks down the larger solute particle into smaller particles that can then be dispersed throughout the solution.

9 Differences between Solute and Solvent (Solute vs Solvent)

Solutions are mixtures of two or more substances, and the substance that dissolves into the solution is a solute. Meanwhile, the solute dissolves into a substance called the solvent. Solutes and solvents are mixed together to form many different products/solutions such as coffee, soap, ointment, and a variety of medicines.
