Getting Started with Impala - I Programmer

For interactive queries, the MapReduce start-up time becomes very noticeable. Impala runs as a service and essentially has no start-up time. Impala can more naturally disperse query plans instead of having to fit them into a pipeline of map and reduce jobs. This enables Impala to parallelize multiple stages of a query and avoid overheads such as sort and shuffle when unnecessary. Impala uses a more efficient execution engine by taking advantage of modern hardware and technologies:
