Kids are usually introduced to the five senses in Pre-K or kindergarten, a precursor to the more advanced anatomy lessons they'll learn in upper grades. For now, they need to recognize the senses as sight, sound, smell, hearing, and touch, and identify the body parts that go along with them. These fun activities will help them do just that!

Exploring the Five Senses through a cut and stick activity. The five senses (sight, smell, hearing, taste and touch) are the different ways that our human bodies receive information; helping us to understand our surroundings and our environment. For small people, these are just being understood and recognised.
