Chapter 13. Chemical Equilibrium.
Equilibrium • Physical Equilibrium refers to the equilibrium between two or more states of matter (solid, liquid and gas) – A great example of physical equilibrium is shown by the concept of vapor pressure. • Chemical Equilibrium is achieved when two conditions are met: – The rates of the forward and reverse reactions are equal – The concentrations of the reactants and products remain constant.

Kinetics Chemical Kinetics is concerned with reaction rates . Typical reaction rate units are M/s, the change in concentration of a species per unit time. There is a huge variation in possible reaction rates. Increasing reaction rates is the goal of many industrial (and biological) processes. In a simple reaction, $A \rightarrow B$, the number of A molecules or [A] decreases with time and the number of B molecules or [B] increases with time.
