Summary. Modern infectious disease epidemiology makes heavy use of computational model-based approaches and a dynamical systems perspective. The importance of analyzing infectious diseases in such a way keeps increasing. However, infectious disease epidemiology is still often taught mainly from a medical and classical epidemiological study design (e.g., cohort, case-control) perspective.

Basic concepts and tools. Epidemiology is based on two fundamental assumptions. First, the occurrence of disease is not random (i.e., various factors influence the likelihood of developing disease). Second, the study of populations enables the identification of the causes and preventive factors associated with disease.
