In comparing the education of Athens with that of Sparta, we are at once struck with two great distinctions: (1) While Spartan education is public, Athenian education is mainly private; (2) While Sparta educates for war, Athens educates for peace. As to the former of these, it is not a little remarkable that, while many of the first thinkers of Greece, including Plato and Aristotle, advocated an entirely public education, Athens never adopted it, or even took any steps in that direction.

ANCIENT EDUCATIONAL IDEALS - Project Gutenberg

Confucius rests on education according to social purpose. Ideally educated person should possess high qualities: generosity, a desire for truth, reverence, accuracy, rich spiritual culture. The appearance and development of writing is an important factor and satellite in the genesis of the Ancient East school.
