In this book Liliane Haegeman presents an account of sentential negation within a Government and Binding framework. Building on the work of Klima and Lasnik, Haegeman demonstrates the parallelism between negative sentences and interrogative sentences, and gives a unified analysis in terms of a well-formedness condition on syntactic representations: the AFFECT criterion, instantiated as the WH ...

The Syntax of Negation by Liliane Haegeman

In logic, negation, also called the logical complement, is an operation that takes a proposition P to another proposition "not P ", written $\neg P$, $\sim P$ or $\overline{P}$. It is interpreted intuitively as being true when P is false, and false when P is true. Negation is thus a unary logical connective. It may be applied as an operation on ...

Negation - Wikipedia

For this statement to be false, I would need to be rich and not happy. If A is the statement "I am rich" and B is the statement "I am happy", then the negation of "A $\rightarrow$ B" is "I am rich" = A, and "I am not happy" = not B. So the negation of "if A, then B" becomes "A and not B". Example. Now let's consider a statement involving some mathematics. Take the statement "If n is even, then $\frac{n}{2}$ is an integer."

In simpler terms, negation defines the polar opposition of affirmative, denies the existence or vaguely – a refutation. This is also known as “Not”. Classical logic resembles negation with truth function which takes truth to falsity and is perfectly capable of running the opposite operation. It denies the truth of a sentence. It's just the conversion of the affirmative sentence which converts the simple affirmative sentence into negative.

In English grammar, negation is a grammatical construction that contradicts (or negates) all or part of the meaning of a sentence. Also known as a negative construction or standard negation . In standard English, negative clauses and sentences commonly include the negative particle not or the contracted negative n't.

Definition of Negation Plus Many Helpful Examples

Summary: A statement is a sentence that is either true or false. A closed sentence is an objective statement which is either true or false. An open sentence is a statement which contains a variable and becomes either true or false depending on the value that replaces the variable. The negation of statement p is "not p", symbolized by " $\sim p$ ". A statement and its negation have opposite truth values.

Negation of a Statement | Math Goodies

In English Grammar, sentence negation is a type of negation that affects the meaning of an entire clause. This form is also known as sentential negation, clausal negation, and nexal negation. In contrast, a negation that affects the meaning of just a single word or phrase is called constituent negation, special negation, and subclausal negation.

Definition and Examples of Sentence Negation in English

In logic, negation and the modal operators are treated as being added to sentences (or, that is, propositions) to create new sentences. If p is a sentence, then $\sim p$ is also a sentence. Although logicians don't use this terminology (they generally call $\sim$, Nec, etc. "operators"), this makes negation a grammatical modifier.
