Five for Fighting is the one-man band of John Ondrasik, who rose to fame in 2001 on the strength of the pop/rock ballad "Superman (It's Not Easy)." This is, as the title suggests, truly "All In Fighting." It is dirty, decisive, and in many cases, potentially (and directly) fatal, and should be treated as such. W. E. Fairbairn, who among other things is known for having taught hand to hand combat to the Allied special forces (or parts of them, anyway) in World War II, came up with a brutal, effective system when faced with a kill or be killed situation.

About Five for Fighting. They say that "crime doesn't pay," but for John Ondrasik this is hardly true. For if he hadn't stolen his sister's guitar at an early age, he might not have become the brain and the breath behind Los Angeles' Five For Fighting. His emotional, piano-centric post-grunge songs dance around Ondrasik's radio-friendly voice.
