Geometrical optics, or ray optics, is a model of optics that describes light propagation in terms of rays. The ray in geometric optics is an abstraction useful for approximating the paths along which light propagates under certain circumstances.. The simplifying assumptions of geometrical optics include that light rays: propagate in straight-line paths as they travel in a homogeneous medium

Geometrical optics - Wikipedia

Geometrical Optics. When an object is dropped in still water, the circular wave fronts that are produced move out from the contact point over the two-dimensional surface. A light source emits light uniformly in all directions of the three-dimensional world. The wave fronts are spherical, and the direction of motion of the wave is perpendicular to the wave front, as depicted in Figure .
