Differential Equations - Fourier Series

In mathematics and physics, the heat equation is a certain partial differential equation. Solutions of the heat equation are sometimes known as caloric functions. The theory of the heat equation was first developed by Joseph Fourier in 1822 for the purpose of modeling how a quantity such as heat diffuses through a given region.

Applied Partial Differential Equations with Fourier Series and Boundary Value Problems emphasizes the physical interpretation of mathematical solutions and introduces applied mathematics while presenting differential equations. Coverage includes Fourier series, orthogonal functions, boundary value problems, Green's functions, and transform methods.

Applied Partial Differential Equations with Fourier Series ...

The partial differential equation takes the form.
$$Lu = \sum_{n=1}^{\infty} A_n \frac{\partial u}{\partial x_n} + B = 0,$$ where the coefficient matrices A_n and the vector B may depend upon x and u . If a hypersurface S is given in the implicit form.

In this course, we will use Fourier series methods to solve ODEs and separable partial differential equations (PDEs). You will learn how to describe any periodic function using Fourier series, and will be able to use resonance and to determine the behavior of systems with periodic input signals that can be described in terms of Fourier series. This course will use MATLAB to assist computations.
