These are the confessions of a caregiver.
 When applying for the job no one would ever apply for, there are a series of requirements you'll need: You are the nurse, handing medications at home and reminding a chemo-brained man to take the right pills at the right time. You are the chauffeur, driving to and from chemotherapies.

Confessions of a Sometimes Caregiver
My mother, an 86-year-old widow, lives alone in a small town in the farming country of central Kansas. Born and raised in the town, she returned there with my father after his retirement, leaving the big city in order to spend their "golden years" with her sisters, brothers, and childhood friends back home.

Confessions of a Caregiver. April 21, 2016. Tim Moran. I have a cold. I NEVER have a cold; I am unbelievably blessed with good health. But I have a bad, cough-until-your-ribs-hurt, stuffy-head-and-I-ache-all-over cold. I would love a day to lie on the couch with the remote, while my husband brings me chicken noodle soup and fluffs my pillow.

This is the inaugural post for the Confessions of a Caregiver page where I hope to engage other caregivers or those who see caregiving in their future, to share tips and tricks or blow off steam, but mostly to find encouragement. It is a rewarding challenge to care for those you love, and still love them in spite of the physical and emotional hurdles involved.
