Spatial autoregressive and Bayesian modeling

In statistics, econometrics and signal processing, an autoregressive (AR) model is a representation of a type of random process; as such, it is used to describe certain time-varying processes in nature, economics, etc. The autoregressive model specifies that the output variable depends linearly on its own previous values and on a stochastic term (an imperfectly

Bayesian spatial models are commonly used for this problem, with the model comprising a multiplicative relationship of available covariates and an additional random effects term that describes the residual spatial autocorrelation. These spatial random effects are often represented by a conditional autoregressive (CAR) distribution [7].
