Monopoly Money And You How

Firstly, Monopoly
 teaches us about cash management. In Monopoly and in real life, it is necessary to keep a cash flow
 balance in terms of
 investing as much as possible but not so much that we cannot handle a rainy day.
 Secondly, Monopoly
 teaches us about diversification. It is not sufficient to collect
 only one colour series.

Monopoly is a literal depiction of the idea that the rich get richer and the poor get poorer: the more money you have, the more property and houses and hotels you can buy, and then the more rent you can collect. A monopoly is, of course, a situation where there is only one seller or provider who has no competition for his goods or services.

OPTION 1: For the money, you want to use a money maker.
You can just search up
a dollar bill maker and you can put in the faces of who you are giving it to. I put my cousins faces on each of the dollar bills. Then, print them out to any size. I personally like small sizes but you can do any size. It will be helpful to print them

the size of the original money so that you can use the box to store
them in.
