The 36 black keys on the keyboard represent a half-step difference in tone between white key notes. A sharp (#) is a half-step up, and a flat (b) a half-step down. Therefore, the black key notes have two different possible names. For example, the black note between F and G could either be called both F# or Gb.

The treble clef is used by instruments that have higher registers, like the flute, violin and trumpet. The higher registers of the piano are notated in the treble clef as well. For beginning pianists, notes on the treble clef staff will be played with the right hand. The note names on the spaces of the treble clef spell out F-A-C-E.

Tips for the Treble Crochet Stitch . At the end of a row of treble crochet, you would chain 4 to turn. The turning chain will be the same height as the rest of the stitches in the row. The treble is often used when crocheting a front post or back post stitch. This is used to create crochet cables, basketweave stitch, and other designs.

How to Treble Crochet aka Triple Crochet Stitch

Step 2: Bring the yarn over the crochet hook and draw it through the chain stitch and up onto the working area of the hook. You now have three loops on the hook (see illustration 36). Step 3: Bring the yarn over the crochet hook and draw it though all three loops on the hook in one motion (see illustration 37).
