Courtly Love Undressed Reading Through

In Courtly Love Undressed, E. Jane Burns unfolds the rich display of costly garments worn by amorous partners in literary texts and other cultural documents in the French High Middle Ages. Burns "reads through clothes" in lyric, romance, and didactic literary works, vernacular sermons, and sumptuary laws to show how courtly attire is used to negotiate desire, sexuality, and symbolic space as ...

But it also contends that a careful reading of the representation of elite garments in medieval French courtly texts can challenge many of our current perceptions about the phenomenon of ‘courtly love’. This is not a book about fashion or social display. It is not anthropology, art history or social history (there are no illustrations). Nor is this an explicitly theoretical book. Burns ...
