Henry Hobson Richardson And His

Henry Hobson Richardson (September 29, 1838 – April 27, 1886) was a prominent American architect, best known for his work in a style that became known as Richardsonian Romanesque. Along with Louis Sullivan and Frank Lloyd Wright , Richardson is one of "the recognized trinity of American architecture".

Henry Hobson Richardson - Wikipedia

Henry Hobson Richardson. "The architect acts on his building, but his building reacts on him - helps to build itself. His work is plastic work, and, like the sculptor's, cannot be finished in a drawing. It cannot be fully judged except in concrete shape and color, amid actual lights and shadows and its own particular surroundings; and if when it is begun it fails to look as it should, it is not only the architect's privilege but his duty to alter it in any way he can."
