In a summary of research on archaeology and art, Raymond Corbey, Robert Layton, and Jeremy Tanner argue that archaeologists concerned with past societies have to confront the disjunction between what “art” means in the contemporary world and the phenomena we seek to understand in the past . They trace the distinction between art and artifact, fundamental to some distinction of art history and archaeology, to nineteenth-century discourses of distinction in skill, sensibility, and creativity.

Review of Tim Ingold's 'Making: Anthropology, Archaeology, Art and Architecture'

Review of Tim Ingold's 'Making: Anthropology, Archaeology ...

The anthropology of art studies and analyses the wide range of material objects produced by people around the world. These are considered not merely as aesthetic objects but are understood to play a wider role in people's lives, for instance in their beliefs and rituals. The materials studied include sculpture, masks, paintings, textiles, baskets, pots, weapons, and the human body itself.
