Fast, thrilling, and exciting are words that can describe

Unraveling Isabel, by Eileen Cook. This book was a really fun and fast paced read for me. One of the things I really liked, was how the author used indirect characterization. Isabel's personality really shined by her actions, and how she thought of things.

It's her final year of high school and she's ripped away from her best friend and thrown into this new family dynamic with a stepdad that she feels is not quite right.

Unraveling Isobel was a surprisingly good read, this book had received quite a lot of mixed reviews so I didn't really know what I was getting myself into, but I ended up thoroughly enjoying it. Isobel is forced to move during her senior year to Nairne Island because of her mum marrying Dick, a guy who she met over the internet and had been dating for only three months.
