You cannot use the unseen poem as your studied poem. However, examiners are well aware of the poems frequently chosen for study in the Junior Cert, so are unlikely to choose one of those as an unseen poem. If it should happen that the unseen poem is one you have studied, then you must choose another poem to use in your Studied Poetry answer.

Table of Past Questions on Studied Poetry

Some verbs should rarely – possibly never – be used when discussing a poem. “The poet tells us” or “the poet says ” are problematic because poetic language is always carefully crafted, with every word and punctuation mark deliberately chosen to capture the exact feeling and idea the poet wishes to communicate.. The verbs “tells” and “says” imply that the poet is telling us ...
